

Food Systems: Production, Trade, Consumption

This workshop continues the discussion on the reception of “food geographies“ in the German-speaking academia, as initiated e.g. at the “Raum i(s)t Nahrung“ meeting in Bayreuth in June 2015. While the quantity and quality of papers presented in Bayreuth illustrated both the broad perspectives and approaches geographers take on this theme, it also showed the need for a further and more in-depth dialogue.

This upcoming workshop will thus focus primarily on questions around the production, trade and consumption of food. These have become increasingly globalised over the past decades, linking producers, traders, manufacturers, retailers and consumers along value chains and networks in different places and (institutional) settings. Apart from these global chains and networks, domestic food systems are also marked by significant dynamics. There are manifold implications of these developments, such as changing farmer livelihoods in both Global North and Global South, changing dimensions of power in value chains, upscaling of production and increasing pushes for standardisation of quality, but also (counter-) movements of “alternative“ production systems.

27.-28.10.2017, Köln

Übungsraum 3 des Geographischen Instituts

Programm:

Freitag, 27. Oktober 2017

9:00 Uhr	Amelie Bernzen, Peter Dannenberg, Alexander Follmann (Köln)	Opening
9:15 Uhr	Keynote: Bill Pritchard (Sydney)	What does it mean to be a food system geographer?
10:15 Uhr	Katharina Molitor (Köln)	Smallholder market-making practices and the role of food prices - a multi-sited case study from north-western Bangladesh
10:40 Uhr	Stephanie Leder (Köln)	Farming Collectives in a changing agrarian structure in Eastern Gangetic Plains
11:05 Uhr	Juliane Dame, Julia Poerting, Stefanie Raschke (Heidelberg)	The Political Ecology of Organic Agriculture in High Mountains: Smallholders, NGOs and New Markets
11:45 Uhr	Abel Villa (Edinburgh)	Technological capability development, cooperation and value creation in agricultural Value Chains
12:10 Uhr	Markus Keck (Göttingen)	Biogenetics in Indian agriculture: Politics of knowledge and non-knowledge
13:35 Uhr	Keynote: Guus van Westen (Utrecht)	Foreign agribusiness investment and local development in Sub-Saharan Africa: Beyond the immediate impacts
14:20 Uhr	Maria Velte (Berlin)	The expansion of Kenyan FFV retailers in Kenya and Tanzania and its implications for stakeholders. (How) is empowerment facilitated?
14:45 Uhr	Sarah Ruth Sippel, Michaela Böhme (Leipzig)	The multi-faceted logics of agro-investments: Financial and Chinese investments in the Australian agri-food sector

15:25 Uhr	Eleni Sifaki (Manchester)	Gendered societal transitions and women's agency in global production networks: the case of Greece
15:50 Uhr	Andreas Voth (Aachen)	Local food products as a cultural heritage and a resource for rural development in the province of Almeria (Spain)
16:30 Uhr	Marit Rosol (Calgary)	Alternative Food Networks (AFN) as alternative production-consumption-relations. Economic Geography perspective
16:55 Uhr	Denise Misleh (Manchester)	Alterity in Alternative Food Networks: unpacking AFNs institutions
18:00 Uhr	Public Lecture: Sukhpal Singh (Ahmedabad)	Globalisation and Commercialisation of Agri-food systems in India: Implications for smallholders (Public Lecture)

Samstag, 28. Oktober 2017

8:30 Uhr	Jannes Tessmann (Köln)	The Interaction between Local and Global Governance: Evidence from a Cashew Cluster in South India
8:55 Uhr	Christine Wenzl (Bonn)	Beyond the Producer-Consumer-Divide: Vegetarian Food in German Canteens
9:20 Uhr	Hanna Augustin (Frankfurt)	Buying groceries on a shoestring - retail structures and shopping strategies in underprivileged neighbourhoods in Germany
10:00 Uhr	Keynote: Christine Bonnin (Dublin)	Save the Waste? Ambiguous Legal Geographies of Food Surplus Redistribution
10:45 Uhr	Anke Strüver (Hamburg)	Good Food? Everyday practices of eating "clean and green"
11:10 Uhr	Felix Ekardt (Leipzig)	Food Governance - integrated solutions for various environmental problems
11:50 Uhr	Carolin Hulke, Fiona Schubert (Köln)	Dynamic outcomes of Supermarketization processes in a transforming economy - A business perspective from Guangzhou, China
12:15 Uhr	Cosima Werner (Heidelberg)	Convenience Food in Convenience Stores in American Ghettos
12:40 Uhr	Petra Lütke (Münster)	From movable curbside feasts to ephemeral socioeconomic spaces
14:00 Uhr	Keynote: George Owuor (Egerton)	Synthesis of financial inclusion among small holder farmers in Africa. The case for Kenya
14:45 Uhr	Mirka Erler, G. C. Muttagi, D. Vijaylakshmi, Christoph Dittrich (Göttingen)	The impact of food transition in middle class families of Bengaluru's rural-urban interface
15:10-15:30		Closing Remarks and Outlook

Weitere Informationen:

<http://gssc.uni-koeln.de/node/1631>

Organisation:

Dr. Amelie Bernzen: a.bernzen@uni-koeln.de

Prof. Dr. Peter Dannenberg: p.dannenberg@uni-koeln.de

Dr. Alexander Follmann: a.follmann@uni-koeln.de

In Kooperation mit dem Global South Studies Center Cologne (GSSC)

Anmeldung (bis 19.10.2017):

Marie Rolf: marie.rolf@uni-koeln.de (20 € für Studierende, 40 € für andere)